Walker Weakens in the Seventh, and the Colts Take Advantage of It.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Colts captured the second of the series from the Red Sox to-day in a rather poorly played game of ball, the fielders on both sides playing loosely, though the locals had much the better, or worse, of the error proposition. Walker was tendered very raw support, the four errors behind him being port, the four errors beaind him being of a costly nature and figuring very materially in the scoring.

He might have won his game, however, but for weakening in the seventh inning, when Richmond landed on him for two singles and a triple, by Selber, which netted the two winning runs. The visitors used un three nitches in The visitors used up three pitchers in the contest. Johns, who started out. was wild, allowing four passes and a scratch hit, which, coupled with his own error, gave the locals a run, He was refleved in the second inning by Twitmire, who pitched a fair game Manager Lipe thought it better, however, to relieve Twitmire after the sixth inning, and Dutch Revelle, who succeeded him, allowed no runs, and gave no passes, yielding but one hit. Danville's ragged fielding was offset somewhat by two fast double plays.

Colts Scored in First.

The visitors started in the scoring in the first inning, when Ison, the first man, was given transportation. Lipe and Kanzler were both retired and Wallace laid down a bunt safely along the third base line. Ison started for third on the play, and scored on Stafford's bad throw. Wallace stole second, taking third on Westlack's bad throw, which went to centre field, and coming home, when King threw bad to third base in an effort to catch him. In the second the visitors scored again, when Seiber was walked, stole second and scored when Messitt was safe on Fisher's error.

Danville scored in the first, when Suilivan was walked, scoring on Johns's bad throw to first in an effort to catch Magree, who had attempted a sacrifice. In the fifth Suilivan was again presented with a pass and took third on Fisher's single. Fisher stole second, Suilivan scoring when Sandherr let Messitt's throw get away, Fisher going to third. He freed by Sandherr and scored on Sei-ber's triple to right field. Seiber then scored on Messitt's single to centre.

Reulbach's Record

CHICAGO, August 10.—By winning to-day's game from Brooklys, Pitcher Edward Reulbneh, of the Chicago National Lengue team, is said to have equated the record for consecutive victories with the pitching slab at its present distance of 001-2 feet from the home plate. Jack Chesbre established the record of fourteen struight games while pitching for Pittsburg in 1902. The record of twenty-four straight games, made by James McCornick, of the Chicago Nationals, in 1886, was established when the pitching slab was closer to the batter.
